

exceed expectations

Healthcare Innovation The Rotterdam approach in strategic international alliances

Kim Bisschop

Innovating European Health(care) in international networks

Do we feel a shared mission to bridge the 'knowledge paradox'?

And do we have the courage to make a difference?

Paper topics

- Strategic positioning for higher education in the healthcare sector in an international context.
- Adding public value by introducing the Rotterdam approach into international innovation and valorization networks.

Innovation management

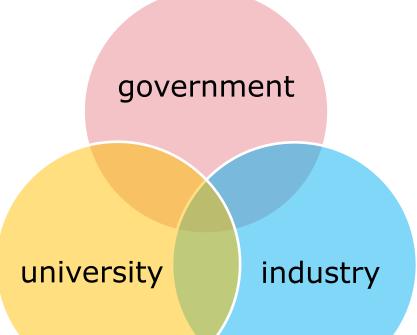

- Support innovative networks;
- Bring diversity into the project teams;
- Allow organizational structures to be out of the box and to develop `on the job'.

Triple helix = triple complex

Triple helix innovation

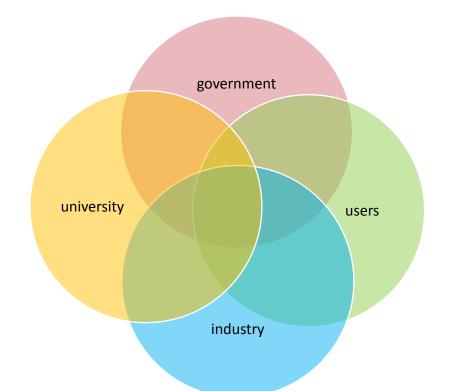

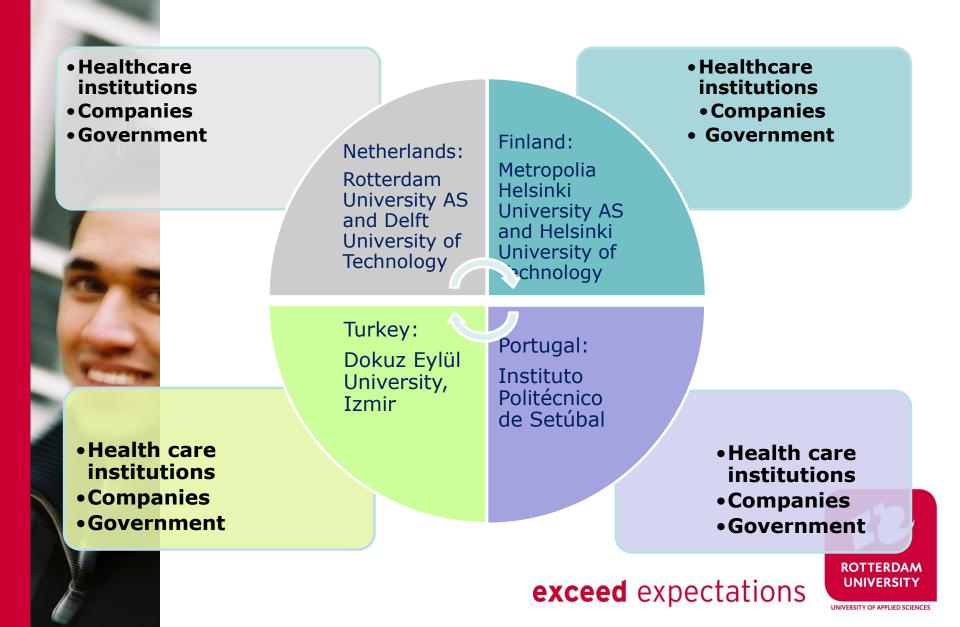

Quadruple helix = impossible??

Quadruple helix innovation

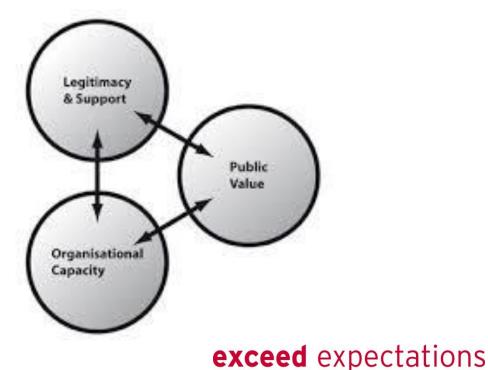

Strategic Partnership THACIT

Governance perspective: strategy

→ Strategic weighing: mission, legitimation, organizational capacity

→ Strategic triangle Moore (1995)

ROTTERDAM UNIVERSITY

UNIVERSITY OF APPLIED SCIENCES

Failing is learning

Let's be BOLD and start a flow of healthcare innovation through Europe!

