

Report about the Erasmus-Mobility

Firstly, I would like to thank the Erasmus+ Coordinators at Semmelweis University for their excellent and tireless work that made my traineeship possible. The whole of my practical year (6th year rotations) I was at my local Hospital the Rems-Murr-Klinik in Winnenden. Because of the traineeship I could work intensively with patients and colleagues in my native language. This meant for me that I could receive as good of a training as possible. My receiving organization was thankfully very easy to work with to host my Erasmus there. They have regular courses in different subjects. My favorite course was the weekly ultrasound course in which I even received a training certificate. Because of the many courses I had the pleasure to meet all the other Students from different German universities. In the Picture we are all together after hours in the clinic. But we did not only work or study together. We often met outside of the clinic to cook together as seen in the next picture.

Because I could talk with the colleagues in my native language, I could precisely communicate what I needed to learn for the curriculum and for my own interests. This meant a frictionless work environment between the supervisors and me. I even found my desired specialty, which is urology. After my state exam in Budapest, I have already applied for a position at the hospital. Most of the students that were with me have also applied for different specialties at the hospital. All in all, I am very satisfied with the Erasmus program. I was able to learn a lot, even if all the commuting to Hungary for the intermediate exams was very tiring. In the following picture you can see us in one of the above-mentioned weekly courses. That time it was surgeries turn where a general surgeon taught us some basic sutures and knotting techniques as well as more complex sutures for minimal-invasive surgery.
