

ED Demonstrator Application Department of Genetics, Cell-, and Immunobiology 2024/2025
Subjects	Cell Science Immunology Genetics and genomics
Deadlines	Submission: July 7, 2024 (until the last day of the spring semester exam period) Evaluation: until the beginning of the practical period of the fall semester
Tasks to be performed	Technical support for practical education (including consultations) (management of microscopic preparations and other demonstration tools, helping students set up microscopes, checking). Providing technical assistance during lectures. Participation in written and Moodle exams as a (room) supervisor. Participation in oral and Zoom exams as a contributor. Carrying out part of the exercises independently with teacher supervision. Starting from the second year of activity, independently holding exercises or a part of exercises, substituting exercise leaders.
Period Employment time:	2 semesters On average, 12 contact hours per month + 8 hours of preparation
Scholarship amount	80.000.-Ft/semester
Requirements	Those who have completed all three subjects above have at least an average exam grade, and at least a good exam grade in the chosen subject. Academic average in the previous semesters > 3.5 His/her behavior is exemplary; has knowledge of a foreign language and good expressive skills; He/she is able to get involved in community life in his narrower environment.