84. The University shall exercise the rights of the owner in respect of the property entrusted to it, subject to the provisions of the KEKVA Act and, in the case of other titles, the rights under the contract on which the title of use is based. The real estate properties may be used for the University's core (public benefit) activity.

VIII. Entrepreneurship at the University

1. The University uses its free infrastructure capacities (in particular publishing activities, production of printing products and the provision of printing services, workplace catering, and the rental of sports facilities), which is essentially not for profit but supports the performance of the core public benefit activity.
2. Activities carried out in cooperation with economic operators to develop and improve the quality of education, research, and patient care or to incorporate new research results into teaching and patient care to raise the quality of essential public benefit activities are not considered entrepreneurial activities.
3. The University shall not distribute its profits and shall use them for the public benefit activities defined in this Deed of Establishment.
4. The University is entitled to carry out entrepreneurial activities to the extent that they do not jeopardize its core activities.

IX. The public benefit status of the University

1. The University carries out its esssential activities, education and scientific research as public benefit activities, subject to the provisions of the KEKVA tv. Annex 1 point No. 18 regarding the public service tasks.
2. The University does not engage in direct political activity, is independent of political parties, and does not provide financial support to them.
3. This Statute authorizes the University to provide in its internal regulations:
    a. the keeping of a register from which the content, date, and scope of the decision of the decision-making body and the number (if possible, the identity) of those in favor and those against the decision can be ascertained,
    b. how decisions are communicated or made public to the persons concerned,
    c. the arrangements for access to documents relating to the operation of the public benefit purpose organization, and
    d. on the publicity of the operation of the public benefit purpose organization, how it uses its services, and the publication of its reports.
4. The University has a 3-member Public Benefit Supervisory Board (KFB) appointed by The University has a three-member public benefit supervisory board, whose members are appointed by the Governing body and have a legal relationship with the University. The Public Benefit Supervisory Board (KFB) controls the operation and management of the public benefit organization, monitors the University's core public benefit activities, and, in this context, may inspect documents relating to the University's management, ask questions and request information from the heads of the University's departments, and also have access to the documents of the University's leadership, the public benefit status, and the operation and support of non-governmental organizations, as defined in the Act on the Right of Association, the Public Benefit Status, and the Functioning and Support of Non-Governmental Organizations in Act CLXXV of 2011. It gives its opinion on the University's institutional budget, annual accounts, and annual report on public benefit.
5. The Public Benefit Supervisory Board shall initiate the convening of a meeting of the Senate after informing the Sustaining Body if it detects any violation of law or any omission that seriously harms the interests of the University or the Sustaining Body, the elimination of which or the removal of the consequences of which requires a decision of the Senate.
6. If the body or organ entitled to do so fails to take the necessary measures to restore lawful operation, the Public Benefit Supervisory Board shall immediately notify the Governing body.
7. The KFB monitors the fulfillment of the University's threefold mission of teaching, research, and patient care, as set out in the University's Statutes.
8. The KFB shall establish its rules of procedure.
9. A member of the KFB cannot be a person who:
    a) is the Rector, the Chancellor, or any member of the Senate,
    b) has an employment or other employment relationship with the public benefit purpose organization for the performance of activities other than those for which they are responsible unless otherwise provided by law,
    c) benefits from the charitable organization's intended use, except for non-monetary services that are available to anyone without restriction, or
    d) a close relative of a person referred to in points (a) to (c).

X. Final provisions

The present Statutes are approved by the Decision No. 28/2026 (27 April) of the National Foundation for Health and Medical Education, and at the same time, the following decision on the Statues and Deed of Establishment of the National Foundation for Health and Medical Education is repealed: 63/2025 (4 November).

The present Statutes shall enter into force on 27 April 2026.

Gábor Orbán, Chairman of the Board of Trustees
