

Effective assessment and feedback

Introduction

Are you ready for a compelling workshop on assessment? We can't wait to introduce our team of five international early-stage educational developers (Liziko Chaduneli, Georgia; Brian Norberg, USA; Dayana Sánchez, Colombia; Igor Úbeda, Nicaragua; Qin Zhuoli, China) who are pursuing an Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree in Research and Innovation in Higher Education (MARIHE) at ELTE. These facilitators not only have teaching experience but also specialize in program design.

The workshop was designed in collaboration with Borbála Kozma, Academic Advisor and teaching expert at Semmelweis University, and Orsolya Kálmán, Associate Professor at ELTE.

Get ready to gain valuable insights on assessment and receive practical tips that you can use in your own setting.

Goals

This training session is specifically designed for Semmelweis University instructors to help you connect your lessons' learning outcomes to your teaching activities and assessment methods, and apply them in your design of assessment plans.

Join our exciting session and:

- Bridge the gap between your expectations and students' learning outcomes by using constructive alignment and connect your course's learning outcomes to your teaching activities and assessment techniques
- Get inspired by good assessment practices and assessment methods and also design your own assessment plan.
- Join a teaching community to reflect on, improve, and innovate assessment practices and become a change agent by modeling for future adopters

Topics and Methods of the Workshop

The structure of the workshop consists of three separate modules: an introductory module, a module on the importance of assessment planning, and finally a module methods of assessment, those methods including effective verbal feedback, writing improved multiple choice questions, and the creation of rubrics.

Attendees will be asked to participate in numerous activities spread across the three modules in a way that allows them to interact with the content in a practical way rather than simply being asked to listen to lectures. The workshop will be in English.

Pre-session activities

In order to make the most out of the training session, we suggest that participants engage in the following pre-event activities :

1. As an introduction, please watch the videos “Perspectives: Why do we assess in higher education?” and “Perspectives: How can assessment help in engaging students?” developed by the Erasmus University Rotterdam. You can watch the video through Coursera or download from here.
2. Check the glossary that we prepared for you and choose three new concepts. Please share one idea about the new concepts you learned and one question that you have for the facilitators (it can be related to the videos as well).

After the workshop

Apply the methods you learned in this workshop to finalize your assessment plan. Feel free to contact us for further help. Just like Ignác Semmelweis proposed hand washing to save mothers' lives, we are proposing the practice of effective assessment and feedback to improve your students' learning and help them save lives in the future.
