

SYMPOSIUM INVITATION

Qualitative Research: what it offers and why this matters in a changing research landscape

We cordially invite academic leaders, researchers from a wide range of disciplines, and scholarly practitioners with an overview of qualitative research to encourage interdisciplinary conversations about qualitative research with our distinguished guests

Professor Martina Ann Kelly
University of Calgary, Canada

Professor Tim Dornan
Visiting Professor, Semmelweis
University, Budapest
Emeritus Professor, Queen's University, Belfast, UK, and Maastricht, the Netherlands.

Date and time:

21 March, 2025; 15.30-18.30 CET

Location

for on-site participants

Szent-Györgyi Albert Lecture Hall, Basic Science Center, Semmelweis University, 1094 Budapest, Tűzoltó u. 37-47.

for online participants:

<https://semmelweis.zoom.us/j/91492846122?pwd=1b1Sltm3qwsTT6CSV4llno3k44yl7q.1>

Symposium Outline

- 1) How qualitative research fits into the research landscape – assumptions and challenges
- 2) How qualitative research is done – Where data come from and what we do with them
 - a) Sources of data
 - b) Descriptive and interpretive analysis
- 3) What have I learned and where from here?

Please indicate your intention to participate by contacting eory.ajandek@semmelweis.hu