Budapest, Hungary

26th – 28th May, 2026

Sustainable Networks Through Interdisciplinary Partnerships – The Key to Quality Enhancements in Doctoral Education

The ORPHEUS 2026 Conference, held 26–28 May 2026 in Budapest, hosted by Semmelweis University and supported by EUniWell, brings together academic leaders, doctoral programme directors, supervisors, and PhD candidates to explore how sustainable interdisciplinary networks can enhance the quality of doctoral education. The programme features invited keynote speakers such as Prof. Sibusiso Moyo, Prof. Kurt Deketelaere, Prof. Ricardo León-Bórquez and Prof. Neil Osheroff among others that frame discussion and encourage cross-institutional learning. The thematic oral and poster sessions, and interactive workshops are addressing quality assurance, supervision, assessment, transferable skills, and international collaboration in PhD education. Networking is a central element of the conference and is highlighted by an exclusive gala dinner, offering a unique opportunity to connect with invited speakers and colleagues in an elegant social setting in Budapest.
